

a park bench in washington square park to meet up with someone to walk, jog, skateboard, etc.

to read a book to observe people to get some fresh air

to sit

to smoke a cigarette to watch/listen to performers to get to somewhere else to walk a dog

to take pictures

to eat

to take a break from school/work to make a phone call to sightsee/tour

to do a school project to find something to do to interact with people without getting too intimate to be alone but not physically to feel anonymous in a crowd of people to get outside

“unspoken gathering place”
